You are warmly invited to save the date for the upcoming conference "Joint action for the Alps – conserve, connect and restore" from 12 to 14 June 2024 in Kranjska Gora, Slovenia. This international conference is jointly organised by the Slovenian Presidency of the Alpine Convention and the International Scientific Committee on Research in the Alps (ISCAR).

Our vast territory has been shaped by a specific biodiversity and geodiversity that have made it an area of great value, particularly for the quality of life of our communities. Faced with numerous threats, the Alps need joint action to conserve, connect, and restore these sensitive Alpine ecosystems.

This three-day conference will offer participants the opportunity to examine the challenges facing bio- and geodiversity in the Alps and what policy, scientific, and social aspects need to be strengthened to safeguard their future.

Join us for three days of discussions starting with the Alpine Convention Biodiversity Conference on 12 June, followed by the scientific conference ForumAlpinum "The Alps – A Refuge for Bio- and Geodiversity?" on 13 June, and a concluding thematic field trip on the final day.

More information will be available in March 2024. Please feel free to share this invitation with your networks!
